IMPROVED NEW EMPIRE.

WITH LOW COPPER TANK.

FOR EITHER

WOOD OR COAL.

1873.

TROY, N. Y., July 1st, 1873.

The past year has added still further laurels to the fame of the NEW EMPIRE COOKING STOVE.

This Stove has been exhibited at every New York State Fair that has been held since it was first manufactured in the year 1868, and has received every first premium that has been awarded by said Society during that time, as the Best Coal-Burning Cook Stove. It has also been awarded FIRST PREMIUM over all the leading Stoves from Albany, Troy, Boston, and other places, at the following GREAT FAIRS, viz: New England Fair, Minnesota State Fair, Western N. Y. State Fair, Michigan State Fair, Great Union Fair, of Michigan, and at over 200 OTHER STATE AND COUNTY FAIRS.

Over forty thousand of these Stoves were sold in five years, after its first introduction to the public, (a larger sale than any other First Class Cook Stove has ever had in the same length of time,) and its sale is constantly increasing. The sales of the New Empire up to the present time this year are nearly double those for the corresponding time in any previous year. This one fact must be conclusive proof of its superiority over all other stoves.

Two years experience has demonstrated that the Low Copper Tank used in this stove is a perfect success. Its arrangement is entirely different from that of any other Low Copper Tank in use; it does not come in contact with cast iron at any point that steam will reach, consequently no difficulty of corroding as with many other low copper tanks

We offer the New Empire to the public the present season, with some slight improvements, viz: the low Tank Casing and Hot Closet ornamented to correspond with other parts of the stove, and a detachable hearth under the fire box door, to avoid the difficulty of coals and ashes falling on the floor when wood is used. We consider the New Empire now perfect, and we do not propose to improve it to death, so as to make it next to impossible for the most experienced stove dealers to order repairs for it correctly, as is the case with many stoves that have been so wonderfully improved. The Firebox of the New Empire has never been changed since the stove was first made, consequently the Grates, Bed Plates and Bricks made at this time will fit any New Empire ever made.

The reputation of the NEW EMPIRE is now so well established we have decided to discontinue the publication of testimonials in our pamphlets. If we print testimonials from one agent we must from all, or give cause for dissatisfaction. To publish all the testimonials we have received and are daily receiving, a large volume would be required, and create a very great unnecessary expense. Knowing as we do that a few local references to persons who are known to parties wishing to purchase a Stove, will have more influence than a large volume of testimonials from unknown parties at a distance, we will leave the back page of cover blank, on which the agent can have printed a list of local references, if he should see fit to do so.

Purchasers of the NEW OR YOUNG EMPIRE will please remember that our guarantee, and the guarantee of our agent of whom they may purchase, is given as to the perfect operation of these Stoves, and to come up to every point claimed for them in this pamphlet, for either wood or coal.

FAC-SIMILE OF BRONZE MEDAL

Awarded the New Empire Cooking Stove at the New York State Fair, held at Utica, Sept. 27th, 28th, 29th, and 30th, 1870.

The IMPROVED NEW EMPIRE is in all respects a first-class stove. The design is very plain and neat, and the castings are made from the very best brands of Scotch and American iron. The castings are smooth, and the stove is mounted in the very best possible manner. In fact, it is the most perfect and beautiful cooking stove in the market. In addition to all the modern improvements that any other first-class stove possesses, it has the celebrated Auxiliary Air Chamber attached, by means of which the following advantages are attained:

1st—Saving of fifty per cent. in fuel.

2d—A fire may be maintained throughout the entire season without rekindling and not become dull by the accumulation of slag or ashes in the firebox; consequently the oven can be put in baking order in five minutes.

3d—A perfect consumption of gas and smoke, so that the damper in smoke-pipe may be kept closed most of the time (thereby retaining the heat in the stove), without any escape of gas or smoke into the room.

4th—It makes perfect base burners of stoves to which it is applied. The fire being at all times bright on the grate, no clinkers form, and the slate in the coal is crumbled to pieces and passes through the grate, instead of remaining in the firebox to deaden and obstruct the fire.

5th—The heat being retained in the stove to a very great extent, the temperature of the room is kept very uniform, there seldom being more than two degrees difference in temperature between the floor and ceiling.

6th—These stoves are easily managed; the fire can be perfectly controlled, so that there is no difficulty in making them the most comfortable stoves for summer as well as winter use.

7th—The best baking stove in the world!

THE IMPROVED NEW EMPIRE

BASE-BURNING COOKING STOVE.

FOUR SIZES.

No. 7—With three 7-in. and one 8-in. Boiler Holes, with half covers to form one 11-in. Hole.
No. 8—With three 8-in. and one 9-in. Holes, with half covers to form a 12-in. Hole.
No. 9—With three 9-in. and one 10-in Boiler Holes, with half covers to form a 12-in. Hole.
No. 10—With four 10-in. Boiler Holes, with half circles to form a 13-in. Hole.

The extension top has, in addition to the above boiler holes, an opening for a Hot Water Reservoir, through which the smoke pipe passes, and under which a Warming Closet can be placed. This stove is also manufactured with a patent Low Copper Reservoir attached to the back of the stove, and on a level with the top thereof, thereby furnishing a very great amount of room on top of stove, and sufficient room beneath the reservoir for a warming closet. We are now constructing our Low Reservoir of Copper, instead of cast iron, as formerly. We find it to be far superior to cast iron, either enameled or galvanized, as the difficulty of rusting, &c., is completely obviated. Experience has shown that the iron galvanized reservoir will rust after having been used some time, and the enameling is very certain to flake off sooner or later, and necessitate the purchasing of a new reservoir, or the using of rusty, dirty water. Water can be boiled in this reservoir in thirty minutes, or by the use of the damper it can be kept at a moderate degree of heat. This Low Copper Tank is protected by letters patent, issued by the United States Patent Office, July 2, 1872.

OVEN.

The oven of this stove is higher and more capacious than that of any other first-class stove; every inch of it is available, being sufficiently high under fire-box to admit of the largest turkey or the largest loaf of bread. The oven is so perfectly protected with double plates, between which cold air is admitted, that the difficulty of burning immediately under the fire-box (so common in other stoves), is obviated, rendering the temperature of the oven even in all its parts.

VENTILATION OF OVEN.

In order to bake properly, it is well known that an oven must be ventilated thoroughly. This all-important point we accomplish in a very simple and thorough manner, by openings in the top oven-plate, under the standard that supports the centre of the top. This standard is hollow and perforated, so that the heated air which passes out of the oven comes in direct contact with the gases generated in the fire-box, aiding very materially the burning of gases, besides being the best mode of ventilation.

ROASTING.

By swinging open the air chamber, and placing a tin roaster or Dutch oven on the hearth, meat can be roasted in the most beautiful manner, and in a very short time. The smoke and fumes will pass under the grate, and into the flues. Oysters in the shell can be roasted in the air chamber very quickly and nicely without affecting the fire. Potatoes can also be baked in the chamber as well as in the oven.

FUEL.

The IMPROVED NEW EMPIRE is adapted to burning either wood, hard or soft coal, and is equally as well constructed for the use of one as the other.

COAL GRATE.

This Stove is made with a dumping and shaking grate, which seems to be almost indispensable in a coal-burning stove. It has a bailed ash-pan to receive the contents of the fire-box, when it becomes necessary to dump the grate, and this can be accomplished without a particle of dust or ashes escaping into the room. The grate shakes from end to end—a modern improvement in first-class stoves. Grates in stoves with the Auxiliary Air Chamber attached stand better than in ordinary stoves, for the reason that cold air seldom comes in contact with them when highly heated.

WOOD FIXTURES.

A very noticeable feature in the NEW EMPIRE is the ease and manner of arranging the fire-chamber for wood. To change from coal to wood, remove the coal grate and fire-brick, put in the wood grate, front fire-plate, and plate at back end of fire-box. The stove is then ready for using wood. The plate between the back brick and front oven-plate serves as the back fire-plate when using wood. A hearth to prevent the coals and ashes from falling on to the floor, when the fire-box door is opened, will be furnished with each set of wood fixtures.

BURNING GASES.

It is well understood that a vast amount of fuel may be saved when burning anthracite or bituminous coal or wood, by having a good gas-burning stove. The IMPROVED NEW EMPIRE is constructed with that object particularly in view, and we think we have succeeded in accomplishing this important point. In order to protect the front oven-plate and that portion of the oven directly under the fire box, we have made the front of the oven with double plates, between which cold air is admitted, and, passing up between the back fire-plate and front oven-plate, passes out over the fire through perforations in the back fire-plate. The large volume of heated air thus coming in contact with the gases generated in the fire-box, produces a large volume of flame, which passes round the oven, thereby saving a very great amount of heat which is lost in many other stoves.

ASH-PIT FOR COAL.

SIFTING ASHES MADE EASY.—Every housekeeper knows that the process of sifting coal ashes is attended with much inconvenience and annoyance from dust, &c., and unless the ashes are sifted, much coal will be wasted that can be used after sifting. In the IMPROVED NEW EMPIRE this disagreeable process is entirely overcome by the ingenious arrangement of an ash-sifter in the hearth or ash-box of the stove, by means of which, after the grate is dumped into the ash-box, the ashes can be sifted in a moment with the same closed, and without the escape of dust into the room, and the coal and cinders are all retained in a separate apartment, and can be returned to the fire-chamber or be removed elsewhere, and the ash-pan can then be removed, containing only the ashes, without any dust whatever. This arrangement does away with the old-fashioned ash-sifters, and must commend itself to all. This is a recent improvement, and is fully secured by letters patent.

HEATING WATER IN CIRCULATING BOILER.

The arrangement for heating water for bathing and other purposes in different parts of the house, in the NEW EMPIRE COOKING STOVE is a cast-iron Water-front, forming the front side of fire-box, taking the place of the fire-brick, from which pipes are taken out on each side (at the points indicated by a ring on each jamb), avoiding the obstruction of draft by crossing the flues with the pipe. Experience has proven that this is the best arrangement for heating water. The old arrangement of a coil of pipe is very objectionable for several reasons, some of which are: It has not the necessary heating capacity; it fills up very quick, when a new pipe is necessary; it forms obstructions in the flues, and prevents the stove from operating perfectly; it is liable to get out of place and produce a trap, the effect of which is to burst the pipe. The Water-front used in the NEW EMPIRE is perfect, and obviates all of the above difficulties.

With this arrangement of Water-front in the NEW EMPIRE, we guarantee to keep up an abundant supply of hot water for bath rooms, stationary tubs, and family use generally, for the largest private house in the cities of New York or Brooklyn.

BROILING.

This stove is so constructed that broiling can be done beneath the fire, which is found to be by far the best mode when coal is used for fuel. By having the fire above the meat, the juices are drawn to the upper surface, and thus retained in the meat, the fumes, &c., passing to the flues. By the old mode of broiling above the fire, the sweetest flavors are cooked out of the meats, besides becoming impregnated with gas and smoke from the fuel in fire-box.

If wood is used, dump coals from the fire-box on to the ash-sifter in ash-pan; use a wire broiler and cover as suggested in the following letter, and the great difficulty of broiling with a wood fire is obviated.

Rutland Directory 1874-1875

COLDWATER, MICH., November 28th, 1871.

Messrs. Swett, Qumby & Perry:

Gentlemen—About a month ago I ordered, through the firm of Markham & Co, of this city, one of your No. 9 IMPROVED NEW EMPIRE COOKING STOVES, and as you have no resident agent here, I want to trouble you with a few questions. To begin with, I have been waiting some years for a satisfactory cooking stove, that did not require me to broil on the top, and on account of that one thing I have turned away from Stewart and the whole line of high priced stoves, and clung to the old front doors and accessible coals of the old time stoves. We burn wood, and I have yet to see steak broiled to perfection, or bread nicely toasted, on the top of a stove burning wood. Of coal I can say nothing; no one uses it in this country.

There has been no limit to the wood burned, of course, and the family verdict this Fall seemed to be that a fuel-saving stove must be had. While in the State of New York the past Summer, a very practical woman using your stove recommended it highly, and swinging back the hearth, and exposing what I took for a gridiron, said —' I broil here." I did not at the time investigate the question, but remembering what I saw and heard when a new stove was determined upon, on the strength of that gridiron I ordered your stove. Well, when it turned into an "ash-sifter," I was somewhat disappointed, but after having set myself up against all our local stove men, and imported something which I asserted was better than they could furnish me, I did not propose to give up my broiling locality. So, with an old gridiron without a handle, which happens to fit the hearth, over a bed of coal on the ash-sifter, and tin boiler lid set up angling against the front of the stove and over the steak, to make the smoke draw up into the stove, I broil spendidly. Then I had a nice light wire gridiron made, the same size, on which six slices of bread can be toasted to perfection, without the cover, of course, as there is no smoke. I have been giving this stove my personal attention, as you see, so that I may be able to sustain my position on that gridiron. Now, in your pamphlet, I find nothing on the broiling question, and I want to ask if the hearth broiling is not a part of your plan, and if you have not the proper furniture, viz., gridiron and cover? If you have not taken that into account, let me assure you that if that were made a specialty, it would carry your stove into many a family where wood is burned, and where there is constant complaint of these top broiling stoves. If it were not for the iron band, I could swing the hearth back over the steak to prevent smoke, but a lid shaped something like the blower to a grate would be all right; and I do think, with this hearth furniture for broiling and toasting, your stove would be "a thing of beauty and a joy forever," to an appreciative cook. Will you oblige me by letting me hear from you on this question? My improvised arrangements answer very well for the present, but with such a fine stove in every other respect, I think something a litte more scientific is demanded for permanent use: and if you make no provision in this quarter, I will try and have something made here to meet my needs.

Respectfully yours,

MRS. D. C. POWERS.

These stoves have not an equal for either

WOOD, HARD OR SOFT COAL.

A fire can be kept through an entire season (without rekindling), with either kind of fuel.

It is well understood that wood stoves as formerly manufactured answer very well where to clear the land is more an object than to economise in fuel, but the increase of population has been so rapid that a fuel saving stove is now becoming an object in nearly every locality,and an appreciative public very well understand that a stove that will burn coal with the best results will burn wood equally well, and this may be one of the reasons why our western trade where wood only is used has grown so astonishingly during the past two years.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING

THE

NEW AND YOUNG EMPIRE IMPROVED

AND OTHER STOVES WITH THE

AUXILARY AIR CHAMBER ATTACHMENT.

1st. A damper must be well fitted in the smoke-pipe, and by it the fire entirely controlled. The damper in hearth or air chamber to be kept open at all times, except when necessary to check or extinguish the fire. The direct draft damper in back of stove to be kept closed at all times, except when kindling the fire. A damper for smoke pipe will be sent with each stove.

2d. When using the stove, do not fail to keep the air chamber in its place, snug against the front of the stove, so that no air can reach the fire except through the damper in front of the air chamber or hearth. By a strict observance of this rule, the formation of clinkers on the brick will be avoided.

3d. To prepare the oven for baking, open the pipe damper, shake and rake the grate, add a little new coal, but be particular that the fire-box is not filled above the top of brick; heat the oven thoroughly before putting in baking, and regulate the heat, while baking, with damper in pipe.

4th. The smoke-pipe should be snugly fitted to the stove and chimney, and all openings in the chimney should be closed, particularly the fireplaces, should there be any.

5th. If the stove is for High Copper Reservoir, see that the reservoir fits the opening (made to receive it) snugly, so that the cold air is not admitted into the flues; also, be sure that the small holes under the reservoir have covers on.

6th. If you wish to extinguish the fire, close the damper in hearth or air chamber.

7th. To keep the fire over night, shake and rake the grate, and add a little fresh coal. After the gas from the new coal has escaped, close the damper in pipe, leaving the damper in the air chamber open from one-eighth to one-quarter inch, according to draft of chimney.

8th. To boil water in the low copper reservoir, keep the direct draft damper closed or turned up, and open the reservoir damper, by pulling it out. When baking, and to keep the water at a moderate degree of heat, close the reservoir damper.

9th. To avoid rust on reservoir covers, wipe all parts exposed to steam with a greasy dishcloth occasionally.

10th. To avoid the escape of dust or ashes into the room when raking the fire, pass the raker through the damper in front of air chamber, which can be done without swinging the air chamber from its place.

11th. Stove size is the proper size coal to use in these stoves.

12th. To broil when coal is used for fuel, shake or rake the grate until the fire is bright on the bottom; after the dust has settled, swing open the air chamber and broil beneath the fire. If wood is used, dump coals from fire-box on to the ash-sifter in ash-pan; use a wire broiler and cover.

N. B.—To avoid cracking of tops and other plates from heat, loosen the nuts under bottom of stove before starting a fire.

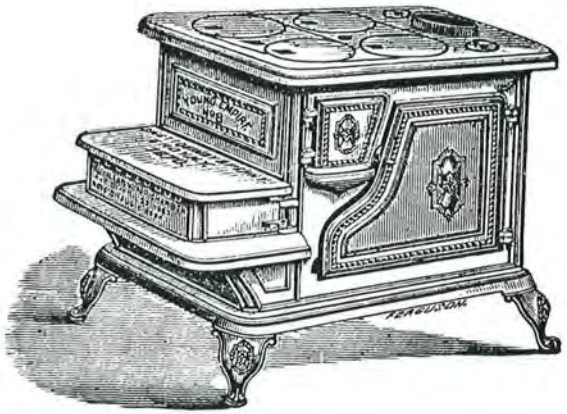

If instructions are strictly followed, every stove is warranted to operate perfectly and not crack.

THE YOUNG EMPIRE.

PLAIN TOP.

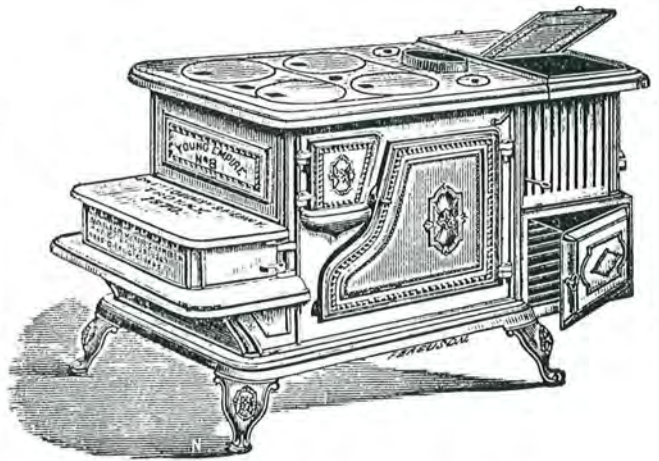

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The YOUNG EMPIRE is made in all respects equal to its celebrated predecessor, the NEW EMPIRE. Being one size smaller, it will meet the wants of those who prefer a smaller stove posessing the same advantages. It has the Auxiliary Air Chamber attached, the same as the NEW EMPIRE, and is made with plain top, and with high or low Copper Reservoir.

Rutland Directory 1874-1875

of all the Early Settlers and their Descendants, of the ancient County of Albany, which embraced the territory on both sides of Hudson's river, from Katskill to Schaghticoke, including Kinderhook and Schenectady. The facts are gathered from the Records of the cities of Albany and Schenectady, and of the Dutch Churches, also of Wills, Deeds, Family Pedigrees, and various other Authentic Documents; and being made entirely from original sources never before published, mainly translated out of the ancient Dutch of the first hundred years of the province, are quite full and entirely reliable. The great familiarity of the author with the names and history of the early settlers, derived from long and patient research among the records, has enabled him to produce a remarkably full account of the generations of people that have fulfilled their destinies in this region during the two hundred and fifty years since the first settlement. Among the great number of their descendants, it is reasonable to suppose that there are a few who entertain an interest in their family history, and who will embrace the opportunity to provide themselves with these works, of which but few remain unsubscribed for. Orders addressed to the undersigned, enclosing price of either or both of the books will receive immediate attention.

FIRST SETTLERS

OF THE

PATENT AND CITY OF SCHENECTADY.

The First Settlers of Schenectady were citizens of Beverwyck. In 1661 Arent Van Curler extinguished the Indian title to lands at this place, and the following spring, with a little company of pioneers, commenced the first settlement. Two years later the lands were surveyed, allotted and patented to fifteen persons, a portion of whom being non-residents sold out their rights to permanent settlers.

For mutual safety they erected their cottages on the plat lying west of Ferry street, which was fortified with stockadoes. Their farming lands, embracing the islands, and rich flats lying on both sides of the Mohawk, produced bountiful crops of maize and wheat: a church was early formed under the occasional ministry of Dominie Schaets of the mother church at Albany: and in spite of its exposed position as the frontier settlement, the little hamlet prospered and grew in numbers and comforts until 1690, when in one night, the 8th of February, the entire village was destroyed and the inhabitants scattered or slain. Nothing better shows the hardihood and pluck of the survivors than the fact that few if any of them abandoned the settlement; they returned in the spring, rebuilt their cottages and the little church, cast the seed into the earth, and amid many alarms awaited the harvest. Though often threatened the place was never again attacked.

It is to this little band of hardy pioneers and their descendants that the following pages are mainly devoted. The sources of this compilation are chiefly the Doop and Trouw Boëken of the First Reformed church of this city. These registers of baptisms and marriages are nearly entire from the year 1691 to this date: those of the first 30 years after the settlement were probably burned in Dominie Thesschenmaecker's parsonage in 1690.

These entire records to 1800, and in a few cases later, have been copied and posted into families in this work. The records of the venerable mother church in Albany have also been carefully searched, and whenever entries have been found relating to Schenectady families, they have been inserted herein. Large additions have likewise been made to the above sources of information from the records of the secretary of state, of the clerks of the city and county of Albany, clerk of the court of appeals; surrogate of the county of Albany; from Munsell's Annals and Collections of Albany; from family records and papers, and from gravestone inscriptions. Doubtless there is much additional information to be found by the patient and careful gleaner, especially such as relates to the later generations. In regard to the first two or three generations of descendants from the First Settlers, it is believed they will be found as completely set forth in these pages as they are likely ever to be from authentic sources.

The territory covered by this work is nearly that of the present county of Schenectady, extending about 22 miles along the Mohawk, and 4 miles on each side of that river. For the first hundred years after Schenectady was begun, the settlements were mainly confined to the river flats, gradually advancing westward, and consisted chiefly of descendants from the old Holland families of Albany and Schenectady, the Palatines being still farther west.

But after the French war and more especially after the Revolutionary war, New Englanders and Scotchmen immigrated largely to the high lands lying back from the river, which had hitherto been regarded as of little or no value.

All these new and foreign settlers, until they had churches of their own, brought their children either to Albany or Schenectady to be christened. Hence there will be found in this work many names of families then residing as far west as Caughnawaga and Canajoharie, south to the Helderberg and Schoharie, and north to Galway and Kayaderosseras patent.

The arrangement of these genealogies is simple and easily to be understood: — the tribal names are arranged alphabetically, and the families under each name are placed nearly in chronological order, and for divers reasons, are made to end with those which began to be entered in the church registers before 1800. Persons interested will find little difficulty in tracing back their pedigrees to the First Settlers, by keeping in mind the following facts. The names of all sons who subsequently became heads of families (so far as the complier could find), are printed in italics: the husbands of daughters and the parents of both husbands and wives are in all cases mentioned when discoverable. It should also be borne in mind that inasmuch as Schenectady was originally but an offshoot from Albany, the families of both places frequently intermarrying, in making up a pedigree of any old family of Albany county as anciently constituted, this work must be regarded as a complement of the Genealogies of the First Settlers of Albany, and that both works should be carefully consulted and compared.

A KEY TO THE NAMES OF PERSONS

OCCURRING

In the Early Dutch Records of Albany and Vicinity.

The student who searches the early Dutch records meets with many difficulties, none of which are more vexatious than their personal names. The majority of the First Settlers ordinarily used no surnames, some evidently had none. In these cases individuals were often distinguished by personal peculiarities, trades, &c., which, though sufficient for the time, give little or no aid to one tracing the pedigree of a family. It is only after great familiarity with the early writings and a careful noting of the use of surnames as they are sometimes subscribed to wills, conveyances, and other important papers that any connection can be established between a first settler and his later descendants. But while many individuals had no surnames whatever apparently, a few families had two or more. Marcelis Janse Van Bommel was farmer of the burger and tapster's excise of liquors in Beverwyck many years. Some of his children took Marcelis as their surname, others Van Iveren; without a knowledge of this fact it would be quite impossible for his descendants to trace back their pedigree to him. A similar case occurred in the Albany branch of the Bratts. In the passage over from Holland one child was born at sea in a storm and he was named Storm Van Derzee, which epithet he and his descendants have since used as a surname. It was not uncommon for the same individual to have two or more surnames and to use them indifferently. Jan Barentse Wemp [Wemple] was sometimes called Poest; he had a mill on the Poesten kil which perhaps derived its name from him rather than from the Dutch word poesten. After his death in 1663 his widow Maritie Myndertse married Sweer Teunise. He had two surnames, Van Velsen and Van Westbroeck. Jan Fort of Niskayuna had the following aliases; Jan La Fort, Jan Vandervort and Jan Libbertee. The change in the spelling and pronunciation of names is likewise a source of considerable embarrassment. Who would recognize the ancient Du Trieux (prononuced Du Troo) in the modern Truax, or Beaufils in Bovie, or Barrois in Barroway, or finally the familiar name of Jones in such laughable disguises as TSans, TJans, and Shawns.

The system of nomenclature in common use among the early Dutch settlers consisted in prefixing the child's to the father's Christian name, terminating in se or sen; in baptism but one name was usually given; the patronymic was used by custom in all cases, and in the absence of a surname was sometimes adopted as such. Thus the children of Rutger Jacobsen (Van Schoenderwoert or Van Woert) were respectively Margaret Rutgers, Engel Rutgers, and Harmen Rutgers, and Rutgers was subsequently assumed as the family name. The two sons of the First Settler Wynant Gerritse (Vander Poel) were Melgert Wynantse and Gerrit Wynantse. The First settler, Harmen Tomase Hun (Van Amersfort) had a son named Thomas Harmense and a daughter Wyntie Harmense. The First settlers Philip and David Schuyler, were more commonly called Philip and David Pieterse, being sons of Pieter Schuyler. Occasionally two patronymics were used, as Samuel Arentse Samuelse Bratt; i. e., Samuel Bratt the son of Arent, who was the son of Samuel. The use of surnames gradually increased among the Dutch from the time the province was occupied by the English in 1664, and after the first quarter of the following century few names were written without the addition of a family name. A list is given to serve as a key to such surnames as are occasionally or almost constantly omitted in the ancient Dutch Records of Albany and Schenectady. It is as nearly full as the compiler, after a somewhat careful reading of these documents, can make it. The names of persons without surnames, or if having them were not entered in those records, will not of course be found here; unfortunately these are somewhat numerous. Another embarrassment in the identification of persons arises from the fact, that some bear the same Christian name. When such cases occur in the list, the dates annexed will sometimes aid in solving the difficulty. Thus the surname of Jacob Abrahamse, found in documents dating 1665-84, was Vosburg alias Kuyper; in those of date 1705, it was Van Deusen. But where there is little or no difference in the dates this help fails, and all is left to conjecture.

PROSPECTUS OF A

History of the Town of Queensbury,

Warren Co., New York.

By A. W. HOLDEN, M. D.

500 pages 8vo, cloth, portraits and plates, $5.

This is an elaborate and carefully prepared history of one of the earliest settlements between Albany and Montreal, to which the author has devoted many years of investigation. The Introduction consists of a resumé of the Indian Tribes and Aboriginal occupancy of the region about Lake George and the Upper Hudson, together with a very complete Indian Vocabulary of localities in Northern New York. The Historic Narrative will comprise a minute detail of the affairs connected with the French War, so far as they relate to the vicinity in question. An account is given of the early settlement of the town, and the noteworthy events connected therewith. Also, a detailed sketch of the Dellius, Kayaderosseras and Queensbury patents, and some account of other land grants in the neighborhood. A complete Civil List constitutes a prominent feature of the book. There will be also about fifty Biographical Sketches of its leading citizens, clergy, lawyers and business men, and a full history of four of its principal Religious Bodies. These subjects will be richly illustrated with steel portraits and other engravings, mostly executed specially for the work. It will be published solely as a subscription book, and will be put to press as soon as an adequate amount of patronage can be obtained to meet the cost of printing, the author expecting no return for many years of labor and expense. Your immediate attention to this circular is therefore respectfully solicited, with an order for one or more copies, and your friendly influence in aid of its publication, by procuring orders from others to send with your own.

First Settlers of Schenectady.

Contributions for the Genealogies of the first settlers of the town of Schenectady, N. Y., from 1662 to 1800. By Prof. Jonathan Pearson.

This work, the result of many years research, contains the names and short biographical notices of all the First Settlers of this ancient town, together with their descendants down to 1800. It is based on the records of the Dutch Churches of Albany and Schenectady, and of the City and County of Albany, wills, family pedigrees, and various other authentic documents. This compilation is made entirely from original sources, never before published, mainly translated out of the ancient Dutch of the first hundred years of this Province. It is modelled after the above mentioned work, containing the old families of Albany.

History of Civilization.

By Amos Dean.

It takes a new path, almost wholly divergent from that of Buckle, Guizot and Hegel. The author has speculated less upon the synthetic view, choosing rather the opposite extreme of giving to every style of growth and development, a thorough analysis. He has prepared an introduction to the study of history, making us acquainted with the people, their peculiar genius, their thoughts and customs, and as far as practicable the mainsprings of the action which made them conspicuous. The information embraced in many volumes is compressed into a brief space.—N. Y. Evening Post.

THE "WEED"

FIRST AT PARIS!

First at Vienna! First in America!

FIRST EVERYWHERE.

The following Editorial Article is taken from the Hartford (Conn.) Daily Courant, of September 16th, 1873.

In yesterday's issue we announced the return home of Mr. George A. Fairfield, Superintendent of the WEED SEWING MACHINE COMPANY, who has represented that Company at the Vienna Exposition. A personal interview with him satisfies us of the justice of the Company's claim to the HIGHEST HONORS AT VIENNA.

Mr. Fairfield brings with him the Official Catalogue of Awards at the Great Exposition, in which his name appears as having received a Medal for Co-operator, in producing and perfecting machines. This Medal is given "to persons, who as managers of manufactories, are nominated on the part of exhibitors on account of the leading part they have taken in the features of excellence of the productions."

No other Sewing Machine Company, or any representative thereof, received such an award; and this settles the point beyond dispute, that the WEED COMPANY lead the world in superiority of Machines and in mechanical ability.

In addition to this grand award, the WEED COMPANY received a "Medal for Progress," the Highest Award made to any other Sewing Machine; also, a "Medal of Merit," the Third in the List of Honor.

Thus it will be seen that the WEED SEWING MACHINE COMPANY of this city have received the Three Highest Awards at the Vienna Exposition of 1873, one of these being superior to any and all others issued to any exhibitor in their line of goods.

The WEED COMPANY also received the Highest Prize given to American Family Sewing Machines at the Paris Exposition of 1867.

THE GREAT SEWING MACHINE TRIAL.

The Schoharie Republican of March 28th, 1872, says:

We witnessed last Wednesday afternoon, at Wood's Hotel, one of the most interesting trials between Sewing Machines ever held in this section. The combatants were the WEED "FAMILY FAVORITE" and WHEELER & WILSON. The operation and manipulations to which the WEED Machine was subjected was simply marvelous. Nothing was too complicated, nor was there any work too light or too heavy for it to do. It seemed to be an uneven race from the start, the Wheeler & Wilson absolutely refusing to do the simplest kind of work. The WEED made beautiful specimens of Hemming, Felling, Ruffling, Puffing, and the like, but it came to variety of heavy work, it astonished every one by flying through everything before it, passing from a dainty ruffle through THIRTY thicknesses of dressed muslin; then to lace; then on to sheet lead, $\frac{1}{8}$ of an inch thick, and finally winding up by stitching with No. 300 cotton, and No. 50 linen thread, upon the same material WITHOUT CHANGE OF NEEDLE OR TENSION during the trial. A machine possessing such adaptability and versatility of power is not only wonderful to witness, but deserving all the enconiums which can be bestowed upon it.

The Award of the Judges was Unanimous in favor of the Weed.

Rutland Directory 1874-1875

The WEED claimed Sixty-four Points of Superiority over the Wheeler & Wilson. By an agreement between the operators, the Weed was to lead off on the first fifteen points after which the Wheeler & Wilson was to take up fifteen of theirs, then the WEED go on. The fifteen points of the WEED were awarded by the Judges:—then the Wheeler & Wilson commenced. After trying three of theirs, and losing two of them, they gave up the contest, absolutely refusing to proceed, leaving

The Weed the Victor by Sixty-three Points.

The Judges were Mrs. E. D. Dexter, Mrs. H. W. Ferris, Lewis Sheeley, George Chamberlain, Abner Taylor. The contest was a bad one for the Wheeler & Wilson, showing conclusively that the WEED stands first as a Family Sewing Machine.

The following is a copy of Diploma awarded to the Weed Sewing Machine Company by the Montgomery County Agricultural Society for 1873:

THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY awarded this Diploma to the WEED SEWING MACHINE COMPANY on a contest with the Wheeler & Wilson Machines, had and exhibited at their Annual Fair, 1873.
